PAUL BIGARD

Tap into the expertise of the leading retirement and financial coaching specialist

With over three decades of experience in real estate, Paul has guided countless individuals to find their ideal homes. His journey as a licensed real estate broker, beginning in 1993, was more than just facilitating property transactions; it was about envisioning clients' futures. Little did he know that this experience was preparing him for a new calling: retirement and financial coaching.

While assisting clients in finding their perfect homes, Paul often helped them imagine their futures—whether it was starting a family or enjoying their retirement years. He realized how vital it is to plan for retirement, especially after witnessing his father's struggle with an unplanned retirement. This experience was tough on their family and motivated him to help others avoid similar challenges.

In 2014, Paul took a significant step by enrolling in a DISC Certification program. This training equipped him to assist retirees in defining their retirement goals.

To further enhance his skills, he also completed Dave Ramsey's program to become a Certified Financial Coach. This certification allowed him to offer expert advice and support to clients preparing for their retirement.

HERE'S WHAT THEY'RE SAYING...

"Paul and my father, Frank, have been the two biggest influences in my life regarding retirement planning. While it is a mental transition, the more knowledge the better."

— M. F. Hess
